He had a brother named Regulus. He was the older of the two children. He died at the age of 36 in June 1996.

General Notes

Sirius was best friends with James Potter, Harry's father, and was also friends with Remus Lupin and Peter Pettigrew. When the group discovered that Lupin was a werewolf, they studied secretly to become Animagi in solidarity with Lupin, to keep himcompany during his transformations

When the Potters went into hiding from Voldemort, they wanted to make Sirius their Secret-Keeper, but at the last minute he convinced them to appoint Pettigrew to the task instead, since no one would suspect such a move. Pettigrew immediately betrayed the Potters to Voldemort, and during the subsequent confrontation with Sirius, caused an explosion to fake his own death, killing twelve nearby Muggle bystanders in the process. Sirius was left framed for Pettigrew's "murder" and those of the bystanders, as well as the Potters' betrayal. In light of the overwhelming evidence against him, his guilt was assumed so completely (in particular by the ruthless Barty Crouch) that he was sent straight to Azkaban without trial and imprisoned there for twelve years, during which he endured relentless mental torture at the hands of the Azkaban guards, the dementors.

'Sirius Black'

Hs later escape from prison led to the widest manhunt ever in the wizarding world (being the first person known to have escaped Azkaban, though in reality, he is second to Barty Crouch, Jr.), and he fled Europe for a time, only to return on Dumbledore's orders in The Order of the Phoenix, where he was forced to stay in his old family home, Grimmauld Place. It was impossible for The Order to reveal his location and prove himinnocent for various reasons. Hs death at the end of The Order of the Phoenix, in the Mnistry itself, led to Dumbledore explaining his story to the Mnister of Magic. Tragically, Sirius was only recognized as innocent after his death.

Crouch

Table 1 Barty Crouch Jr

Barty was born in 1963.

Birth Notes

Orouch is a Death Eater who was captured with the group responsible for torturing Frank and Alice Longbottom, parents of Neville Longbottom His father, who headed the Department of Magical Law Enforcement at the time, sentenced him to life imprisonment in Azkaban.

However, Crouch's father rescued him as a favour to his dying mother by switching their bodies. Crouch's mother later died and was buried under his name. His father kept him under control with the Imperius Ourse and forced him to hide under an invisibility cloak at all times. Crouch was nursed back to health by Winky, the family's House-Elf. Bertha Jorkins discovered the truth, and years later it reached Lord Voldemort. He rescued Crouch and put his father under the Imperius Curse. Crouch then kidnapped Mad-Eye Moody and, with the help of the polyjuice potion, took over Moody's job of teaching Defence Against the Dark Arts. His father was later killed by Crouch himself.

Crouch planned to succeed where his master had failed, but also failed to kill Harry. Under the influence of Veritaserum, a powerful truth potion, he recounted his plan and his intentions throughout the year. He was to be watched over so that he could give his testimony later, but instead, before he could come to trial, he had his soul sucked out by Dementor's Kiss. It is important to note that he is still technically alive, but one would hardly dare to identify what he has been reduced to as "alive." It is never revealed what happened to him after he had his soul sucked out, but it is assumed he either died or was sent back to Azkaban.

Dursley

Dudley Dursley

Dudley's father is Vernon Dursley and his mother is Petunia Evans (Dursley). His paternal grandparents are Mr Dursley and Ms Dursley; his maternal grandparents are Mr Evans and Ms Evans. He has an adopted brother named Harry.

General Notes

Harry's only cousin, he is described as a large blonde boy. He is completely spoiled, and he gets a horrible delight in bullying smaller kids, and shows a complete lack of sensitivity; he is also a glutton.

Dudley has been thoroughly spoiled since birth, getting mountains of birthday and Christmas presents and then throwing a tantrumbecause he wanted more, being given two bedrooms in the house, never using one, and then screaming when it is given to Harry and generally given his way in almost everything. He shows the symptoms of a brat from his first year itself, when a disgusted Professor McGonagall tells Dumbledore how she saw the toddler Dudley kicking his mother and screaming for sweets.

'Dudley Dursley

A rude, beligerent and selfish boy, Dudley is quite an unlikable character, although he knows how to be polite when he wants to make an impression (notably when his father's business associate came for dinner one evening). It can be inferred that he and Harry went to a private prep school in Surrey together, where Dudley and his gang of bullies ruled the school, and where the rest of the students shunned Harry as they knew Dudley hated him With each passing year Dudley was overindulged in every way by his parents, which eventually made his morbidly obese and a careless student (he had reached the height and weight of a young killer whale at the beginning of the fourth book). Throughout their childhood together, Dudley would take any opportunity he could to humiliate and torment his cousin, Harry. Unlike his cousin, however, Dudley has no powers outside of his brutishness.

Education Details

Dudley attended Smeltings.

Education Notes

The same year Harry started at Hogwarts, Dudley was enrolled at his father's old boarding school, Smeltings. Smeltings is described as a snobbish public school with absurd traditions.

Aunt Marge usually brings her dog Ripper with her to Privet Drive – he pines when he is away from her – and treats him better than she treats most humans. While Aunt Marge is gone, Colonel Fubster takes care of her other dogs.

Due to this she hardly ever visits Privet Drive, to Harry's great delight. However, each of her visits stands out in Harry's mind for her cruelty to him. Edgecombe

Marietta Edgecombe

General Notes

Marietta has curly, reddish-blonde hair and is a friend of Cho Chang.

Marietta's mother is Madam Edgecombe, who helped Cornelius Fudge and Dolores Umbridge take control of Hogwarts. Madam Edgecombe works in the Roo Network Office, which is part of the Department of Magical Transportation in the Ministry of Magic, and she policed the Hogwarts fires, except for Umbridge's, to make sure that nobody in the school made contact with anyone the Ministry did not want themto have contact with.

Education Details

Marietta attended Hogwarts.

Education Notes

As Cho had a romantic interest in Harry Potter, who was at the centre of the Mnistry's smear campaign, this left Marietta in a difficult position. Marietta joined Dumbledore's Army entirely because of peer pressure. Dumbledore's Army was doing the one thing the Mnistry didn't want to happen; training students in combat.

Eventually, Marietta betrayed the D.A. to Umbridge; however, the parchment that all members had signed had been jinxed by Hermione, so she broke out with pustules which spelled the word, "SNEAK". Umbridge took Marietta to testify against Harry, but Kingsley Shacklebolt swiftly modified her memory, to keep Harry and his friends out of trouble.

Petunia Evans (Dursley)

Petunia's father is Mr Evans and her mother is Ms Evans. She had a sister named Lily.

General Notes

Is described as being a blonde woman, with bony hands, a horsey face and a very long neck, which she uses to spy on her neighbours. Was bitter and jealous that her parents were proud to have a witch in the family.

Occupation Details

Occupation Notes

She obsessively follows news about divorced movie stars while sniffing, "as if we're interested in their sordid affairs".

'Aunt Petunia'

At some point she met Vernon Dursley and married him. Petunia Dursley hadn't seen her sister for years and usually pretended she didn't have one - The Evans sisters weren't talking as Lily Potter knew how her sister felt about her. However one day Petunia discovered her nephew Harry Potter on her doorstep as she put out the milk bottles.

There was a note left with baby Harry by Albus Dumbledore, which explained that his parents Lily and James had been killed by Lord Voldemort, how Lily Potter had sacrificed herself to save her son's life and how living with his only other relatives would protect him from Lord Voldemort. Petunia and Vernon agreed to raise Harry, but kept himas downtrodden as possible in order to squash the magic out of him, they never told him how his parents died, instead claiming they had died in a car crash.

When Petunia and her husband, Vernon, attempted to throw Harry out of their house at the beginning of Order of the Phoenix, she receives a Howler from Durnbledore — "Remember my last, Petunia", which JKR has confirmed is referring to the note he left with one-year-old Harry on their doorstep. Rowling has also said that Durnbledore had corresponded with Petunia before that. Aunt Petunia has, therefore, more knowledge about the wizarding world than she will admit. Furthermore, Petunia has proved she knows what dementors and Azkaban are, claiming to have overheard a conversation between Lily and an "awful boy" that night have been James Potter. Petunia normally refers to James using his name, leaving the possibility that she has met other wizards.

Rowling explained this away by saying that he failed his exams[1]. In later printings of the first book, however, he is a Fifth Year. ♂ Alastor (Mad-Eye) Moody

General Notes

Moody is horribly scarred, described as looking as if he had been carved out of wood by a person with only the crudest understanding of the human form. He has lost several body parts, including an eye, leg, and part of his nose in fighting practitioners of the Dark Arts, and is cautious—some might say paranoid—he refuses to eat or drink anything which he himself has not prepared 'as it is all too easy to poison an unattended cup.'

Before the school year began, however, he was locked up in a chest by Barty Crouch Jr, a faithful follower of Voldemort, who used a Polyjuice Potion to take his formin order to replace him Mbody owes his life to the fact that one ingredient of the Polyjuice Potion is a part of the person whose formis to be assumed, such as a tuft of hair. Crouch Jr. needed to keep himalive, under the Imperius Curse, so he would be able to use his hair in the potion and question him Mbody's habit of carrying his own drink in a private hip flask allowed Crouch to take the Potion regularly without raising suspicion.

Pettigrew

Peter (Wormtail) Pettigrew (Scabbers)

Peter, known as Wormtail, was born in 1957.

Birth Notes

Sirius and Remus Lupin reveal that Pettigrew is an Animagus who takes the formof a small rat. Called "Wormtail," he had become the secret-keeper for James Potter and his wife Lily Evans when Harry was a baby, in hopes that Lord Voldemort would pursue Black instead. However, he betrayed the Potters to Voldemort in order to gain the Dark Lord's favour. During the confrontation with Sirius on that fateful night, it was actually Pettigrew who blasted the muggles and then transformed himself to escape with the other rats down into the sewers. He left behind a finger, successfully faking his own death and framing Black for his and the Potters' deaths.

'Peter Pettigrew'

General Notes

Rettigrew had masqueraded as Scabbers, the pet rat owned at first by Percy Weasley, then by his brother Ron. It has not been revealed how Peter, as Scabbers, managed to get into the Weasley family. None of the Weasleys took particular note that "Scabbers" outlived a common garden rat and had a missing toe.

Quirrell

Prof Quirinus Quirrell

Occupation Details

From 1991 to 1992 Quirinus' occupation was Defense Against the Dark Arts Professor for Hogwarts, in Hogwarts.

Occupation Notes

It is revealed that, during his travels, Quirrell had met a barely-alive Voldemort. Voldemort, seeking to restore his physical form, entered Quirrell as a host body, using himin a plan to steal the Philosopher's Stone fromvault 713 in Gringotts Bank, where it had been deposited for safekeeping by Albus Dumbledore. Fortunately, Hagrid had removed the Stone from the vault earlier that same day to take it to Hogwarts.

To conceal the fact that Lord Voldemort's face was on the back of his head, Quirrell decided to wear the turban, hiding its purpose with a story that it had been given to him by an African prince as a thank-you for getting rid of a troublesome zombie. In order to keep Voldemort alive, he started killing unicorns in the Forbidden Forest and drinking their blood.

'Quirinus Quirrell'

On Halloween Quirrell let the troll in as a diversion, and went to the third-floor corridor where the Stone was now hidden. Severus Snape, who already suspected Quirrell, went to the third floor in order to stop him. Snape was bitten by Fluffy.

In order to figure out how to get past Fluffy, Quirrell got Hagrid drunk, and gave him a dragon's egg, something Hagrid had always wanted. Quirrell sent a letter to Dumbledore, telling him to go to the Ministry of Magic, Quirrell took advantage of his absence to try to reach the Stone, and was pursued - unwittingly, as they thought they were pursuing Snape - by Harry, Ron and Hermione.

During Harry's final encounter with him- at which Voldemort reveals himself on the back of Quirrell's head and speaks directly to Harry - Quirrell is killed. Due to the lingering protection from Lily Potter's sacrifice of love for her son, Quirrell is unable to touch Harry without suffering extreme pain. Although Harry is rendered unconscious, he holds off Quirrell long enough for aid to arrive, at which point Voldemort flees in his spirit form His departure causes Quirrell's death, hence Dumbledore's comment that Voldemort is as merciless to his followers as to his enemies.

Significantly, however, an earlier cohort of students included Tom Marvolo Rddle. On one occasion, Rddle questioned Slughorn about Horcruxes, artifacts which could act as vessels for pieces of a person's soul in order to grant immortality. Having learnt of the nature of Horcruxes, Rddle went on to perform the necessary Dark magic to create his own Horcruxes, which contributed to his formidable power in his later reign of terror under his assumed name of Lord Voldemort.

Trelawney

Sybill Patricia Trelawney

General Notes

Her first name is spelled Sibyll in the United States.

Trelawney wears many gaudy bangles, cloaks and shawls, all covered with shining sequins. She also wears thick glasses, which cause her eyes to appear greatly magnified. She affects ethereal and misty tones when speaking. Her classroomis in the North Tower of Hogwarts. A fire is always going, scented quite heavily with perfumes that often make students either fall asleep or make wondrous predictions of the future.

Occupation Details

From 1979 to 1996 Sybill's occupation was Divination Professor for Hogwarts, in Hogwarts.

Occupation Notes

Harry and his friends Ron Weasley and Hermone Granger believe Trelawney is a fraud, with which the teachers are inclined to agree. Her credibility as a Seer is undermined by her habit of making repeated predictions each year that one of her students will die - pronouncements which have never yet come true.

In Harry's third year (his first in Divination), Trelawney began to predict his imminent demise. During every class thereafter, she continued to insinuate that his death could come at any time, to the great irritation of Harry and his friends. Eventually, in part due to this habit of Trelawney's, Hermione dropped the class. Harry and Ron continued Divination studies until their fifth year, at the end of which they failed the exams and could not continue further - although neither was upset about this.

In 1996, Professor Trelawney was put on probation by Dolores Umbridge, Hogwarts High Inquisitor. This news pushed Trelawney into a spiral of alcohol-induced paranoia, and she was subsequently seen around the school clutching a bottle of cooking sherry and moaning about her victimisation at Umbridge's hands.

Her fears were proved justified when Umbridge dismissed Trelawney, although Dumbledore exercised his remaining authority as Headmaster to prevent Umbridge from evicting Trelawney to boot. In Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince it is revealed that Dumbledore feared for Trelawney's safety if she ventured outside the school, since Lord Voldemort would probably want to obtain from her the prediction she made concerning him Dumbledore employed a centaur named Firenze as Trelawney's replacement. Trelawney was reinstated after Umbridge was ousted from the school and returned to the Mnistry of Magic. Much to her displeasure, Trelawney now shared responsibility for teaching Divination with Firenze.

Umbridge

Dolores Umbridge

General Notes

Unbridge is a short, squat woman described as resembling a large toad. She often wears a black velvet bow in her hair that reminds Harry of a fly about to be caught. She has a high, girly voice that Harry describes as sounding like poisoned honey.

Occupation Details

From 1996 to 1997 Dolores' occupation was Headmistress for Hogswart, in Hogwarts.

Occupation Notes

After Dumbledore left Hogwarts, Umbridge was installed as Headmistress. However, the Headmaster's office refused to open for her, and her tenure as Headmistress was characterized by rebellion by most of the student body and faculty.

Her time in Hogwarts is characterized by cruelty and physical punishments against students — she stands out especially for forcing Harry and Lee Jordan to write lines using a quill that magically causes the words to be cut into the skin on the back of the writer's hand, and uses his blood as ink. She also ordered the botched whipping of Fred and George Weasley, and eventually even planned to use the Unforgivable Cruciatus Curse in order to extract information from Harry.

From 1996 to 1997 her occupation was Defense Against the Dark Arts Professor for Hogwarts, in Hogwarts.

Occupation Notes

Her class consists only of defensive magical theory, due to Fudge's paranoia of Dumbledore using his students as an army to bring down the

From 1996 to 1997 her occupation was High Inquisitor for Hogwarts, in Hogwarts.

Occupation Notes

Umbridge is appointed the first (and only) ever "Hogwarts Hgh Inquisitor," in which position she is given extraordinary powers over the students, teachers and curriculum. Unbridge creates an Inquisitorial Squad, which is comprised entirely of Slytherins and rewards some students for reporting on others and sanctions them to act as enforcers of Unbridge's rules. By attempting to defame Harry Potter and censor word of the truth of Voldemort's return, Umbridge and Fudge frequently unintentionally help the Dark Lord and his followers.

Several months later, Ron Weasley accidentally eats several of Romilda's doctored chocolates and is affected by the love potion, forcing Harry to take him to Professor Slughorn for an antidote - which leads to Ron being poisoned by accident.
